Johannes le Roux. ENTREPRENEUR COACH

Where everything lives

The four screens you'll actually need. Stick this on the wall — it's the thing people forget by Wednesday.

SKILLS

1. Your name or initials, bottom left
2. Settings
3. Customize
4. Find Skills
5. Add or upload

It moved out of Capabilities. Any guide older than a few months sends you to the wrong menu.

PROJECTS

1. Projects in the sidebar
2. New project
3. Name it after the real thing
4. Add your documents and numbers
5. Start chats inside it

If it doesn't seem to know your business, check you started the chat inside the project.

CONNECTORS

1. Settings
2. Connectors
3. Find the one you want
4. Connect
5. Approve in the pop-up

Switch any of them off from the same screen, in seconds.

SCHEDULES

1. Just ask, in plain words
2. "Every Monday at 7am, …"
3. Find them under Routines or Tasks
4. Pause or delete from there

You never have to find a menu to set one up. Only to switch it off.

WHEN IT GOES WRONG

Uploaded a skill, nothing happens	Start a new chat. Skills don't load into a conversation that was already running.
Downloaded the skill and got a folder	Your Mac unzipped it. The .zip is still in Downloads next to it — use that.
Connector pop-up hangs	Pop-up blocker, or you're signed into the wrong Google account in that browser. Try incognito.
Connected, but it can't see anything	It's switched off for this chat. Turn it on in the chat's own connector settings.
Your scheduled job writes an essay	Ask for three lines and what you should do about it. Don't fix it with formatting.
Something asks for a password or a key	Stop. Nothing here needs one. Ask me.

THE HABIT THAT MAKES IT STICK

Start work inside your Project, not in a blank chat. Everything you loaded today is sitting in there — and a blank chat knows none of it.
