

Claude for entrepreneurs.

3 hours, your laptop, one job you actually hate. You leave with it running.

THE JOB YOU NAMED

Difficult to say — I'd like to set up automatic bookings and invoicing for my new coaching website.

What you walk out with

6 things, running, on your own machine. Not notes about how you might do it later.

1 A Project that knows your business

Your documents, numbers and standards, in one place that outlives the chat.

2 Live data

Your real email, drive or accounts — not a demo.

3 One real artefact

Built in the room, off your own numbers.

4 A skill that repeats your process

The job you do every month, captured once.

5 One job running on a schedule

The first thing that happens without you.

6 A 14-day call and a 30-day review

Because the room is only a third of it.

BRING

- A laptop and a charger
- One real, messy file from your business — not a tidy example
- Your logo, a couple of photos, an old deck or brochure if you have one
- Claude installed and signed in, with the workshop skill added

ONE RULE

You won't be asked to write code, open a terminal, or install anything beyond the app itself. If a step ever seems to need it, say so — it means we've taken a wrong turn, not that you've missed something.

The three hours

Roughly a quarter teaching, the rest you, doing it.

TIME		WHAT
10:00	12'	Setup and triage Logged in, everything working. Problems solved now, not at 11:30.
10:12	13'	Name the job Four jobs on the board. That list is the spine of the session.
10:25	20'	Briefing, not prompting Rewrite your worst prompt as a proper brief. Watch what changes.
10:45	30'	Build the business brain A real Project — your documents, your numbers, your standards.
11:15	15'	Break The café is downstairs.
11:30	30'	Point it at real data Connect your email, drive or accounts. Ask about your own numbers.
12:00	35'	Delegate the job Hand over the job you named. Get back something real.
12:35	15'	Make it repeat Turn what worked into a skill. Put it on a schedule.
12:50	10'	Commit and close One thing you'll do by Friday. We book the 14-day call here.

If you fall behind, get to 12:00. That's the block that makes the day worth it. Everything before it is setup and everything after it is making it repeat — but the middle is where you hand over a real job and get something back.

Briefing, not prompting

The single biggest difference between people who find this underwhelming and people who don't. A prompt asks for a thing. A brief says what you're trying to achieve and hands over what's needed to do it.

THE FIVE PARTS

- 1. The job. What you actually want done, and why it matters.
- 2. The context. Your business, your numbers, your constraints.
- 3. The material. The real file. Not a description of the file.
- 4. What good looks like. How you'd know it was done properly.
- 5. The format. A spreadsheet, a page, a document, an email.

WRITE YOUR WORST PROMPT HERE — THE ONE THAT GAVE YOU A DISAPPOINTING ANSWER.

NOW WRITE IT AS A BRIEF.

Booking in, invoice out

A booking lands in your calendar and the invoice is drafted before you've thought about it — on your template, with the right client, the right session, the right amount. Then it checks each morning for anything booked yesterday and anything still unpaid.

WHAT IT NEEDS FROM YOU

- The sessions you sell and what each one costs
- An invoice you've sent recently — the real one, so we match your format
- Your banking details as they appear on invoices
- Your logo, and how you want to be paid — upfront, on the day, or after

WHAT REPEATS AFTERWARDS

A skill that turns any booking into a finished invoice, and a morning check for yesterday's bookings and anything unpaid.

WATCH FOR

The booking widget itself and taking card payments are sign-ups, not builds — an afternoon won't produce a payment gateway. What we automate is everything between the booking and the money, which is the part actually eating your evenings.

NOTES — ASSUMPTIONS, NUMBERS, THINGS TO FIX LATER

Before you leave

Most training evaporates inside a fortnight. This is the page that decides whether yours does.

THE ONE THING I'LL DO BY FRIDAY

WHAT I BUILT TODAY, AND WHERE IT LIVES

WHAT I'D BUILD NEXT, IF THIS WORKS

WHAT HAPPENS NOW

- Day 1 — your asset pack: Project template, the skill you built, my prompt library
- Day 14 — a 60-minute group call. One win and one blocker each. This is the call that decides whether it sticks
- Day 30 — a written review: what's working, what isn't, what's next

STUCK BETWEEN NOW AND THEN

Tell Claude what happened — it can fix most of it. If it can't, mail me. I'd rather hear about it on the Tuesday than at the 14-day call.
