

Claude for entrepreneurs.

3 hours, your laptop, one job you actually hate. You leave with it running.

THE JOB YOU NAMED

Open to all tips, moving into a new business model and target audience.

What you walk out with

6 things, running, on your own machine. Not notes about how you might do it later.

1 A Project that knows your business

Your documents, numbers and standards, in one place that outlives the chat.

2 Live data

Your real email, drive or accounts — not a demo.

3 One real artefact

Built in the room, off your own numbers.

4 A skill that repeats your process

The job you do every month, captured once.

5 One job running on a schedule

The first thing that happens without you.

6 A 14-day call and a 30-day review

Because the room is only a third of it.

BRING

- A laptop and a charger
- One real, messy file from your business — not a tidy example
- Your logo, a couple of photos, an old deck or brochure if you have one
- Claude installed and signed in, with the workshop skill added

ONE RULE

You won't be asked to write code, open a terminal, or install anything beyond the app itself. If a step ever seems to need it, say so — it means we've taken a wrong turn, not that you've missed something.

The three hours

Roughly a quarter teaching, the rest you, doing it.

TIME		WHAT
10:00	12'	Setup and triage Logged in, everything working. Problems solved now, not at 11:30.
10:12	13'	Name the job Four jobs on the board. That list is the spine of the session.
10:25	20'	Briefing, not prompting Rewrite your worst prompt as a proper brief. Watch what changes.
10:45	30'	Build the business brain A real Project — your documents, your numbers, your standards.
11:15	15'	Break The café is downstairs.
11:30	30'	Point it at real data Connect your email, drive or accounts. Ask about your own numbers.
12:00	35'	Delegate the job Hand over the job you named. Get back something real.
12:35	15'	Make it repeat Turn what worked into a skill. Put it on a schedule.
12:50	10'	Commit and close One thing you'll do by Friday. We book the 14-day call here.

If you fall behind, get to 12:00. That's the block that makes the day worth it. Everything before it is setup and everything after it is making it repeat — but the middle is where you hand over a real job and get something back.

Briefing, not prompting

The single biggest difference between people who find this underwhelming and people who don't. A prompt asks for a thing. A brief says what you're trying to achieve and hands over what's needed to do it.

THE FIVE PARTS

- 1. The job. What you actually want done, and why it matters.
- 2. The context. Your business, your numbers, your constraints.
- 3. The material. The real file. Not a description of the file.
- 4. What good looks like. How you'd know it was done properly.
- 5. The format. A spreadsheet, a page, a document, an email.

WRITE YOUR WORST PROMPT HERE — THE ONE THAT GAVE YOU A DISAPPOINTING ANSWER.

NOW WRITE IT AS A BRIEF.

Your new positioning, on one page

A new model and a new audience is the build. What you're now selling, who it's for, and why it's different — written down properly, in one place, so every quote, post and conversation says the same thing.

WHAT IT NEEDS FROM YOU

- Who the new audience is, as specifically as you can manage
- What you're selling them that you weren't selling before
- Anything you've already written about the new direction — rough is fine

WHAT REPEATS AFTERWARDS

A skill that keeps your writing consistent while the story is still settling, and a weekly prompt that asks you the questions you should be answering.

WATCH FOR

Yours is the most open brief in the room, which makes it the easiest one to spend three hours exploring and leave empty-handed. We'll name the artefact early and hold you to it.

NOTES — ASSUMPTIONS, NUMBERS, THINGS TO FIX LATER

Before you leave

Most training evaporates inside a fortnight. This is the page that decides whether yours does.

THE ONE THING I'LL DO BY FRIDAY

WHAT I BUILT TODAY, AND WHERE IT LIVES

WHAT I'D BUILD NEXT, IF THIS WORKS

WHAT HAPPENS NOW

- Day 1 — your asset pack: Project template, the skill you built, my prompt library
- Day 14 — a 60-minute group call. One win and one blocker each. This is the call that decides whether it sticks
- Day 30 — a written review: what's working, what isn't, what's next

STUCK BETWEEN NOW AND THEN

Tell Claude what happened — it can fix most of it. If it can't, mail me. I'd rather hear about it on the Tuesday than at the 14-day call.
